

10 Questions To Ask Yourself Before Your Next Solution Implementation

1. Is your documentation lacking or even current?
2. Are you struggling to keep up with the explosion of data generated by your business?
3. Do you have the right resources for that big business initiative?
4. Do you have the capabilities to test a new solution before deployment?
5. Do you have a defined change management process?
6. What considerations should you make when contemplating an offsite, hosted solution?
7. Is your remote-access solution user-friendly?
8. Are you currently capable of validating solutions in-house?
9. Does interacting with your current provider feel more “transactional” versus consultative?
10. Are you getting the “value-add” from your VAR?
